

BOXING—SPORTS OF ALL SORTS—BASEBALL

More pruning is due the local big league ball clubs before the spring training trips start in March, and both Managers Rowland of the White Sox and Tinker of the Cubs will be busy men, arranging for discards.

Rowland has 34 athletes on his list, and it is desired that only 27 start from here for Mineral Wells, Tex., where the conditioning camp will be pitched. A dozen pitchers and half as many catchers are on the roster, and several men employed in these departments probably will be cast off without a trial.

The infield division is fairly crowded, but every man there is worth a thorough trial, and the outfielding crop classes well. Terry and McMullen, the infielders secured from the coast, will get a chance at third base and shortstop. Both were stars in their league and must be considered. Jack Ness will have a whack at first base.

Rowland has no ironclad contracts to bother him and only has to secure waivers in order to dispose of his surplus. Joe Tinker is not in that enviable position. He is hampered by unbreakable agreements in many instances and must find some club willing to assume a fat contract before he can do any eliminating.

Joe's squad is still away beyond the quota he desires to take to Tampa and there are several men whose abilities are known through their big league efforts in the past. They do not fit into the Tinker scheme and will be dropped.

Charley Weeghman and Roger Bresnahan were due for another conference today in an effort to settle the status of the ex-Cub pilot. Weeghman says he wants to do the best he can for Bresnahan and will send him to any club he wishes to play for. Roger is interested in getting the full terms of his contract for the next two years and doesn't care much where the money comes from.

W. and G. Dernbach took top honors in the double event of the Knights of Columbus bowling tournament, topping 1,321 pins, within a few of the world's record. Jimmy Blouin rolled into the individual honor with 671. Barrys won the five-man title with 2,868.

Jack Munro, heavyweight prize-fighter, who won fame by flooring Jim Jeffries, has lost an arm in the fighting in Flanders. Munro was a sergeant in a Canadian regiment.

Johnny Dundee defeated Stanley Yoakum in twenty rounds at Denver. The Scotch Italian did a fine piece of fighting, forcing Yoakum at every stage.

Kid Howard has installed a piano in his Arcade gym, and in the future fighters will train to the strains of rag time. This would be an ideal training spot for Freddy Walsh, the fox trot champion.

Jimmy Kilroy, manager of Young Herman, has accepted the defi of Doc Krone and posted $500 with Al Bloom for a battle between Herman and Willie Schaeffer. Kilroy is willing to let the money go as a side bet.

Jo Loomis and Joie Ray, star runners of the C. A. A. and I. A. C., respectively, are on their way east to defend their honors in several invitation indoor meets. Each will meet a bevy of the seaboard's star flyers during a three weeks' trip.
